Photoshop Elements introduces a new user interface that is very similar to Paint, iPhoto or the iOS Photos app. Elements, the new program for Apple's iOS-based devices, is also a minor update to the popular app, and serves as a bridge for users to quickly access tools from both versions. Photoshop Elements is an essential tool for photographers, designers and web programmers. Here are all the steps needed to open and edit images in Photoshop Elements. This article contains information on how to open an image, edit an image, use a selection tool, make selections, crop and straighten an image, work with layers, create a photo collage, retouch an image, flip images, apply sharpening, add a background, add background, sketch, and add a signature. 1. Open the image in Photoshop Elements Open an image in Photoshop Elements by using the File menu. Select File > Open, or click the Open File button. The Open File dialog box appears. Use the icons in the upper-left corner of the dialog box to select which type of file you want to open. Choose the image type: JPEG, TIFF, PNG, RAW, or other. Open an Image. Click Browse to find and select a file to open. Before opening an image in Photoshop Elements, make sure to check the following: • Make sure your image contains details and enough data to allow editing and saving. For example, if you select a RAW image format, avoid opening JPEG images that are too large. • Click the File menu, and then choose Save. The Save As dialog box appears. • Select the image format for the new file. If the file type is already selected, click the arrow to the right of the Format menu, and then select a different file type. • Make sure that Edit and Preset are the first two options in the File menu. Also, make sure that the option Show Open Files is selected. • Select a location for the file in the Save As dialog box. Click Save. The file is now open in Photoshop Elements. 2. Load or open an image in Photoshop Elements You can use the File menu to load an image into Photoshop Elements. Open a JPEG, TIFF or RAW file. Open a JPEG, TIFF, or RAW image in Photoshop Elements. Choose File > Open or 388ed7b0c7

Months after the American Pregnancy Association announced support for the Equal Rights Amendment, the Amendment still languished in a U.S. Senate committee. Was it dead? On a recent Sunday, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-KY) and his caucus took to the chamber's floor in an effort to seize on several state-level anti-abortion bills currently working their way through various state legislatures. The effort was met with backlash across the nation, as the Republican majority in state legislatures tried to force nearly all provisions of the bill through. Before the Senate moved on the issue, the Senate Judiciary Committee held a public hearing on the Equal Rights Amendment. Now, by contrast, a majority of the Republican senators on that committee appear to be ready to "bring up and send to the full Senate floor," as Rachel told us on the Squawk Box market wrap. The Congress passed the ERA in 1972 with support from overwhelming majorities of Democrats and Republicans. Now it is the sole focus of feminists who have long pushed for its approval. "The plight of women has been described by many who have dedicated their lives to women's rights, including Patty Stonesifer, who was the Executive Director of the National Women's Political Caucus until she was defeated by one vote in the U.S. House of Representatives in 2010," Congresswoman Betty McCollum (D-MN) wrote in The Huffington Post after the committee hearing. "Only once the country and women's rights advocates had a chance to provide testimony under oath before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Equal Rights Amendment was it placed on the Judiciary Committee's agenda." And things look good for its approval. McConnell, known as the "grim reaper" for his tactics to rid the Senate of any remaining Democratic seats, believes there is enough Republican support for the ERA to support a unanimous-consent vote of support on the floor of the Senate. Q: Adding distance and duration from/to zip code to database using python How can we get the distance in miles and duration from/to zip codes using python and an api that provides this information. A: Use Google Geocoding API. It will give you the latitude and longitude of your zipcode. Then use an OCR to get the names of the neighbors. You can get the distance using the coordinates. Once you have distances for every zipcode you can join it to the another table that has your distance and duration field. I have not tested this, but this is the skeleton. def get_zipcode_and_neighbors(zipcode): web_service_url = " + zipcode r_json = requests.get(web_service_url).json() if r_json['status'] == 'OK': print r_json['results']['formatted_address'], '{ } Miles or seconds'.format(r_json['results']['distance']['value']/1000) return r_json['results']['formatted_address'] Q: How to add a tag to a view included in another file I have two files, they are essentially the same: index.html Reflector script.js $(document).ready(function() { $(a).click(function(){ var page = 'index.html';
