For those who are not sure whether FAST Search is free or not, you may visit Fast. Check the differences of both the drives when opened with your web browser. At least for file size and other technical attributes you will have a clue whether one is free or not. It is strongly recommended to use the latest version of Firefox as it is faster and has fewer memory leak and crash issues than the old versions. If your hardware is compatible with USB 3.0 you can use the 64-bit version. If not, you can still use the 32-bit version as well as the USB 2.0 and 1.1 versions. If you want a more powerful way to crack password, download the latest version of chntpw and try to make your password as long as possible. The longer the password you make, the more chances to crack it.Cancún: a feast for business and leisure Cancún is the place to be in December. It is the place to be for family reunions and to see the most beautiful beaches in the world. It is the place where thousands of tourists visit every year to have a nice time and to do business. You might not be interested in doing business in Cancún, you might want to enjoy the beaches or you might be just in town with friends or to visit the art galleries. Then you are not alone. There are several ways of enjoying your stay in this beautiful place and you might find one or all of them to be attractive. I am already living in Cancún. Since this was my first experience of living in a southern hemisphere country I decided to have a look at how things work and what life is like for foreigners who do business there. I asked my friend and our lecturer David Totton who has been there for 20 years for an opinion on this subject. This is what he had to say: “Cancún is a town of contradictions. You can be there for business or pleasure. There is a business community with several thousand residents who are primarily employed by one of the international airlines, hotels and other tour operators. They are an established part of the Cancún economy and are certainly not a swan song for any newcomer. In this bustling part of the metropolis there is also a small expat community that may be part of or arise out of the hotel industry. This community tends to be more bohemian and the individuals who

Photo: iStock Photo Hospitals pay more than $500 million in reduced values when selling exchange-traded funds and ETFs that are often used to hedge against the effect of inflation. When hospitals sell exchange-traded funds or ETFs, hedge funds, and other financial products, they accept a lower price than what they would receive if the securities were traded on a secondary market. “When hospitals sell products like ETFs, they generally receive less than the price they would receive on an effective secondary market,” said Michaela Weise, a spokeswoman for the Hospital Financial Management Association, an organization for chief financial officers. “This means hospitals are essentially incurring the costs associated with capitalizing an asset but not taking a revenue stream.” Hospitals sell exchange-traded funds and ETFs in two ways: by creating new products or by buying existing investments. On average, hospitals pay around $2.30 for each dollar of the institutional investments they sell, said Mike Mullen, a senior vice president at Decision Sciences, an analytics provider. But hospitals get only 75 cents for each dollar they sell, because of the “markups” they must pay to sell the securities on an exchange, according to a March analysis of hospital ETFs published in the Journal of Cardioth
